ABSTRACT

The number of doctoral degrees awarded in the United States are summarized by academic discipline, undergraduate institution, and time period. Data for this fifth in a series of reports are from the Office of Scientific and Engineering Personnel of the National Research Council (NRC). It includes private, four-year, non-doctoral degree granting institutions. The institutional rankings by discipline include all persons who received doctoral degrees between 1920 and 1986 and between 1977 and 1986. A total of 877 colleges and universities are included. The sample contains only institutions that: are included on the NRC data file, are privately controlled, and do not grant a significant number of doctorates. Results of this study show the number of doctorates granted per year to baccalaureate graduates of the 877 institutions has increased dramatically in recent years. The increase is observable in both the science and nonscience fields. Education and the life sciences are the most popular doctoral fields among this group of baccalaureate graduates, and chemistry and psychology are also popular. The past decade has also witnessed significant increases in the proportion of women who have received doctoral degrees compared to earlier years. The three appendices are as follows: an alphabetical listing of 877 private institutions; definitions of American Association of University Professors categories; and a list of academic fields. (SM)

BACCALAUREATE ORIGINS

OF DOCTORATE RECIPIENTS

I. Introduction

This document is the fifth in a series of reports summarizing the number of doctoral degrees awarded in the United States by academic discipline, undergraduate institution, and time period. The data were obtained from the Office of Scientific and Engineering Personnel of the National Research Council (NRC), and include private, four-year, non-doctoral degree granting institutions (Types IIA and IIB) as defined by self-report to the American Association of University Professors (AAUP). The institutional rankings by discipline include all persons who received doctoral degrees between the years 1920 and 1986, and between 1977 and 1986. Summary statistics and rankings are also provided for doctorates granted in 1986. Individual institutional data are included for up to 355 colleges and universites in the discipline rankings. This edition also features a section summarizing total doctoral activity by discipline, gender, and time period, across all institutions in the sample.

A total of 877 colleges and universities are included in this study (see Appendix A for an alphabetical listing). The sample contains only institutions that: 1) are included on the NRC data file, 2) are privately controlled, and 3) do not grant a significant number of doctorates (see Appendix B for the complete definitions of AAUP Types IIA and IIB). Every effort was made to include all appropriate institutions. Institution names and abbreviations have been taken directly from the NRC data file.

The method of ranking institutions tied at a given rank is consistent with the 1986 edition of this report (i.e., ranked positions are skipped following ties in order to reflect the total number of institutions included at that position). In addition, the lowest rank within a field includes all institutions tied at that rank. Finally, the method by which academic fields are aggregated into totals and subtotals is imbedded in the structure of the NRC file and has not changed since the 1986 edition. These categories are listed in Appendix C.

Two cautions are in order for valid interpretation of these data. First, the rankings do not take into account the large numbers of graduates who receive medical degrees, law degrees and other professional non-doctoral degrees. Second, as in past editions we have chosen not to normalize the data on the basis of institutional size. Persons interested in weighted rankings may refer to other researchers' work (e.g., Carol H. Fuller's report for the Great Lakes Colleges Association in June, 1985 or Alfred E. Hall's article in Change in April, 1984).

II. Summary of Results

The number of doctorates granted per year to baccalaureate graduates of the 877 institutions in this study has increased dramatically in recent years. Between 1920 and 1986, an average of 2,659 doctorates were awarded each year; the annual average for 1977-1986 was 6,164 . The increase is observable in both the science and nonscience fields. Education and the Life Sciences are the most popular doctoral fields among this group of bacccalaureate graduates, and both disciplines are comprising an increasingly large share of the doctoral pool over time. Chemistry and Psychology are also popular doctoral fields, with Psychology doctorates increasing in number over time but Chemistry declining somewhat in recent years (i.e., from 10% of all doctorates between 1920-1986, to 6% of all doctorates between 1977-1986).

The past decade has also witnessed significant increases in the proportion of women who have received doctoral degrees compared to earlier years. This trend occurred in all fields (26% of all doctorates between 1920-1986 were earned by women, compared to 38% between 1977-1986 and 44% in 1986), with particularly striking increases during 1977-1986 in Education, English, Foreign Languages, Anthropology and Sociology, and Other Humanities. Differences between the 1977-1986 and the 1986 proportions are also impressive, suggesting that relatively greater doctoral achievement among women may continue into the foreseeable future. Within-gender comparisons indicate a preference among men for the sciences, while the majority of doctorates awarded to women are in nonscientific fields. Rapid growth was noteworthy in selected fields: for example, the proportion of women's doctorates in Education increased from 28% between 1920-1986 to 33% in 1986. The proportion of men's doctorates in Education remained a stable 20% during the same time periods.

Definitions of AAUP Categories

As reported in The Annual Report on the Profession, Academe, March-April 1988, the AAUP has asked representatives of institutions of higher education in this country to classify their institutions into one of five categories based upon the numbers and types of degrees granted. The classification scheme was created by the National Center for Education Statistics; the AAUP adopted the scheme in 1983-1984. The AAUP offers the following definitions for the two categories of institutions included in this report.

Category IIA (Comprehensive Institutions). These institutions are characterized by diverse post-baccalaureate programs (including first-professional), but do not engage in significant doctoral-level education. Specifically, this category includes institutions not considered specialized schools in which a number of doctoral-level degrees granted is fewer than thirty or in which fewer than three doctoral-level progams are offered. In addition, these institutions must grant a minimum of thirty post-baccalaureate degrees and either grant degrees in three or more post-baccalaureate programs or, alternatively, have an interdisciplinary program at the post-baccalaureate level.

Category IIB (General Baccalaureate Institutions). These institutions are characterized by their primary emphasis on general undergraduate baccalaureate-level education. They are not significantly engaged in post-baccalaureate education. Included are institutions which are not considered as specialized and in which the number of post-baccalaureate degrees granted is fewer than thirty or in which fewer than three post-baccalaureate-level programs are offered and which either (a) grant baccalaureate degrees in three or more program areas, or (b) offer a baccalaureate program in interdisciplinary studies.

Appendix C

List of Academic Fields

Total All Fields	Total Sciences Total Nonsciences Other and Unspecified
Total Sciences	Life Sciences (Agriculture, Biology and Health Sciences) Physics and Astronomy Earth Sciences (Geology, Atmospheric and Marine Sciences) Psychology Chemistry Computer Sciences Mathematics Engineering Economics Political Science and International Relations Anthropology and Sociology Other Social Sciences (Area Studies, Criminology, Geography, Public Policy, Statistics, and Urban Studies)
Total Nonsciences	English Foreign Languages History Other Humanities (Classics, Linguistics, Speech, Letters, American Studies, Archeology, Art, Music, Philosophy, Religion and Theatre) Professional (Business, Communications, Architecture, Home Economics, Law, Library Science, Public Administration, Social Work and Theology) Education

Note: In the institutional rankings, the Total All Fields category will exceed the sum of the Total Sciences and Total Nonsciences categories due to the inclusion of an Other and Unspecified field. In the summary tables, however, the Other and Unspecified category has been included in the Total Nonsciences.
